Established by William Penn in 1682, Chester County includes Nottingham Township, first surveyed in 1702 and later divided into East and West Nottingham in 1715. Elk and Oxford Townships were formed from this land in the mid-1800s. Early settlers were primarily English, Scottish, and Irish, with some Swedes, reflected in local place names like Christine Road, named for the Queen of Sweden. The land's cultivation and the establishment of taverns led to the creation of place names that continue to be used in the area today.
